Georgia's 1934 political campaign will be formally opened with Governor Eugene Talmadge's opening address at Bainbridge before a crowd which is expected to be more than 20,000.

Reports from Bainbridge Tuesday night said that all of the hotels there were filled, while from Thomasville, Camilla, Albany, Moultrie, Valdosta and nearby points there were reports that these cities were swarmed with people en route to Bainbridge.

Governor and Mrs. Talmadge, with a party of close personal friends, spent the night at Albany and are to leave there early this morning for Bainbridge, where the governor will review an independence day parade before making his address.

Motorcades To Form.

In many south and middle Georgia cities scores of motorcades are to form this morning and proceed to Bainbridge, each picking up additional cars in the cities they pass through. Mayor John E. Drake, of Bainbridge, said Tuesday night that burning indecent weather the Talmadge speech today would draw the greatest crowd in the history of south Georgia and undoubtedly would be exceeded only by crowds at major events in Atlanta.

And in that crowd will be representatives from all sections of north Georgia, who Tuesday and Tuesday night, when the governor will review an independence day parade before making his address.

It was pointed out Tuesday that in opening his campaign at Bainbridge in the extreme southwestern

Admiral Okada Leads New Japanese Cabinet

TOKYO, July 4.—(Wednesday)—(AP)—Prince Sanjō, elder statesman, today advised Emperor Hirohito to instruct Admiral Okada, former cabinet member, to form a new cabinet to replace that of Premier Saiō.

Admiral Okada was appointed minister of the navy in the Tanaka cabinet in 1927. He served in the same capacity under Premier Saiō. He resigned in January, 1933, to be succeeded by Mino Otsu.

Sunday Sandwich Movie Indictment Is Refused

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 3.—(AP)—Sunday sandwich movies seemed destined for a long and successful run here today when the grand jury refused to indict Charles Mensing, Orpheum theater manager, under the state blue laws.

Mensing previously had obtained an injunction in chancery court restraining the city from revoking his theater license. His case was brought before the grand jury in an effort to obtain an indictment and stop the show.

For the past month Mensing has been defying the city authorities and serving sandwiches and drinks and throwing in a "free" movie.

His idea caught the public fancy at once and in three Sunday experiments he has had capacity audiences at his theater.

Other theater managers indicated today that they probably would enter the Sunday field now and compete with Mensing.

TERRORISTS BOMB VIENNA BUILDINGS IN NEW OUTBREAK

Government Officials Renew Efforts To Tighten Defense; Police Headquarters Damaged.

VIENNA, July 3.—(AP)—A dynamite blast in the Salzburg police headquarters and a fire in Vienna city hall, possibly of incendiary origin, together with minor bombings in various parts of Austria today kept government officials busy trying to tighten their defense against terrorists.

The Salzburg police headquarters was severely damaged by air explosives placed on the second floor, despite the fact that the building was heavily guarded.

Today's outbreaks—it has not yet been determined for certain whether the city hall fire was the work of terrorists—added to a long systematic campaign against the government in which nine persons met death.

Death List Small.

The death list is small when it is taken into consideration that hundreds of bombs have been set off, indicating that the bombers—nazis or socialists or both—are not seeking to kill.

The government, on the other hand, has not yet carried out its threat to execute persons convicted of terrorism, although several nazis and socialists have been sentenced to prison.

In connection with the anti-campaign a rumor has been going the rounds that Austrian nazis, despite the fact that they are outlawed as a party, are contemplating a "cleanup" job in Germany.

Subject of Debate.

What proportion of the terrorism is nazi and what socialist or communist in still a subject of debate. It is hoped that the nazis would cease their part of the terrorism campaign have been felt twice recently, first when Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini agreed on Austria's independence and again when Hitler found himself busy suppressing the revolt among his own followers.

These hopes were based in part on the belief that nazi outrages are directed from Germany, but were not fulfilled in either case.

Britain May Apply Tramp Ship Subsidy

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—The government today announced its intention to apply a $10,000,000 subsidy to the British tramp ship industry and at the same time to aim at reduction or abolition of all shipping subsidies.

SENATORS RALLY BEHIND ROOSEVELT IN SPEAKING DRIVE

Group Will Carry Administration Fight to Nation in Answer to Republicans' Attack on New Deal

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—A group of democratic senators are planning to take to the country an out-line of the Roosevelt recovery program that will be designed to meet republican assaults upon the New Deal.

This will be in addition to the regular campaign of democratic running for re-election—senators and congressmen—and to the around-the-country trips of cabinet members and administration advisors.

The tentative plan will call into action the senators not up for re-election and who have been particularly active in boosting through congress special phases of the administration's program.

While the names of those at the top of the speaking list are still highly tentative, they are expected to include upwards of a dozen specialists on the New Deal, in addition to general campaigners by such leaders as Robinson, of Arkansas, Barkley, of Kentucky, opened the counter attack tonight with a national radio address.

Russell Will Aid.

The roll call for the agricultural shock troops includes such men as Byrnes, of South Carolina; Russell, of Georgia, and Barkley, of Kentucky.

To discuss the financial program, there will be Harrison, of Mississippi, chairman of the senate finance committee, who will be free of any re-election problems for himself.

In the labor picture—recently accentuated with the creation of a new national labor board through the joint effort of congress and the president—there will be Wagner, of New York, and Costigan, of Colorado, both veterans of battles for labor legislation.

The tentative program is built around a corps of senatorial experts, it also is based on a belief that there should be a co-ordination of the speaking engagements of senators.

Fletcher Sides Committee.

The address last night of Henry P. Fletcher, new chairman of the republican national committee, had its verbal fireworks capital among the politicians today. Representative Britten, republican, Illinois, said it "tore the mask off the illusion of prosperity."

In connection with the republican denunciation of the administration's "cracked down" on the "regimentation of pauperism as a dangerous substitute for unemployment."

But Representative Byrnes, democratic floor leader of the house, interpreted the Fletcher talk over a national radio hookup as "just another attack on President Roosevelt."

"The people," he said, "are not in a humor to listen to anybody complain without having something to suggest."

Postmaster-General Farley, democratic national chairman, said of Fletcher in a prepared statement:

"I welcome him to the fellowship of the statesmen who are up for re-election and note his views coincide with those of Senators Robinson, of Indiana; Hastings, of Delaware; Dickinson, of Iowa; Kean, of New Jersey; Walcott, of Connecticut; White, of Maine; Austin, of Vermont; Goldsborough, of Maryland, and various others who may not be with us longer than it will take the people at the polls to render their opinion of their statesmanship."

"I don't think he has said the things on which he bases his arraignment of the Roosevelt administration quite as well as some of the others who have undertaken the forlorn hope of 'cracking down' on the people with phantoms of fascism, dictatorship, communism and socialism."

... perfectly willing to leave it to the people whether the New Deal, that has brought re-employment to so many who were in the breadlines last year, that has raised wages, diminished hours of labor, abolished the sweat shop and eliminated the disgraceful child labor from American industry, is a good thing or not. The people will register their decision in November."

The campaigns of those democratic members of congress running for re-election say some of them, may be somewhat embarrassed by an intra-party incident. There have been, almost since the advent of Mr. Roosevelt in the White House, discontent over patronage.

In those districts where patronage has been sparse, it is expected the democratic candidates will lean heavily on the Roosevelt recovery program and their part in having congress approve it.

Marie Dressler Holds Stubbornly to Life

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., July 3.—(AP)—Physicians still found a hope for Marie Dressler's recovery, but the 62-year-old film star had improved to such a degree today that she was able to take solid food.

Physicians, treating her for complications of uremic poisoning and cancer which brought her close to death last Thursday, said it was the first time in two weeks that she had been able to digest anything except liquid nourishment.

Only Politicians Will Labor As Georgia Observes Fourth

Workers To Enjoy Day of Idleness, With
Sports Events, Picnics and Outings
Arranged for Holiday.

Nobody will work on the Fourth except postmen and politicians. The postmen will have to carry letters only once during the day, but the poor politicians will be busy all day long at barbecues and picnics. In the old days the Fourth was a small boy's dream of noise and glory but during the last few years it has become merely a day on which the stores are closed, and the candidates have larger audiences.

Picnics and pink tea parties galore have been planned to celebrate the holiday. A Pittman rally will be held at Lithia Springs, at which William Schley Howard will speak. Judge Pittman himself will speak at Warm Springs while Governor Eugene Talmadge will attend a barbecue at Bainbridge. Ed Gilliam will address a group at Stone Mountain.

Those for whom political picnics have no appeal have packed baskets and bought gasoline for a day's outing. Others have bought tickets to the seashore and plan to forget the heat of the boys have forgotten just how rowdy the Fourth used to be.

Legion Swimming Contest.

Among the more sensible outings planned is the American Legion swimming contest at Dalton, because the weatherman says that picnickers will have to paddle about in the rain anyway.

Sport fans will have a great time watching the auto races at Lakewood park or watching the Crackers in a double-header or dashing down to Macon for the six-hour international championship motorcycle race. The break created as the racers swerve by may serve as another incentive to attend.

Though activities begin at 9 o'clock this morning at Lakewood, when the

Atlantian Files Petition
Asking Extension of Foreclosure Proceedings

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—Thomas H. MacDonald, federal roads bureau chief, said today the bureau had not determined whether Whitley Construction Company, of LaGrange, Ga., would be permitted to bid in the future of federal aid road construction jobs.

The company recently was found by the NRA compliance division to have violated the construction code in work on state financed highway projects.

Informed a bureau official had been quoted as stating Whitley would be barred from bidding on $1,000,000 of Georgia highway work July 12, MacDonald said no official but himself had authority to speak for the bureau, and that he was not ready to say what the policy would be with relation to the Whitley company. The roads chief told newspapermen he had received no official communication from NRA that the company's Blue Eagle had been forfeited. Until this was received and the bureau completed its own inquiry into the case, he said, no procedure in the matter will be determined upon.

Under general administration policy, firms without certificates of NRA codes compliance cannot bid on work financed in whole or in part by government funds.

Youth Ties Shotgun to Tree, Sends Fatal Load Into Body

With a shotgun tied in the crook of a tree, Walter L. Jackson, 16, pushed the trigger with an iron rod and committed suicide Tuesday afternoon while hunting on his grandfather's farm six miles east of Fairburn.

He was found Tuesday night by his father, Pomp Jackson, employee of The Constitution, and his uncle, Charles Jackson, of near Fairburn.

The youth was living with his grandfather and went out hunting Tuesday afternoon. Relatives heard three explosions of the gun and when he failed to return for dinner Tuesday night his father and uncle set out to search for him.

STRIKERS ATTACK SHIPPER'S TRUCKS IN SAN FRANCISCO

Police Battle Rioters as Several Cargoes Are Dumped En Route to Waterfront.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 3.—(AP)—Amid fierce fighting between police and union pickets, and in the face of repeated appeals by President Roosevelt's labor disputes board for a peaceful settlement, heavily laden trucks today began moving cargo from the strike-blocked piers of the San Francisco waterfront.

At least two officers were hurt and an undetermined number of pickets injured as several hundred strikers advanced upon the blockade-running trucks and were met by more than 600 city policemen who fired shotguns into the air, hurled gas bombs and split numerous scowls with swinging clubs.

The movement of cargo represented the San Francisco Industrial Association's effort to open the port, closed since the beginning of the Pacific coast longshoremen's strike last May 9.

Port "Technically Open."

After announcing five trucks had run the gauntlet of strike pickets Frank Carmody, representative of the Industrial Association, announced his organization considered the port "technically open" and that more trucks were available to clear the piers.

At the same time, cargo moving activities were going on in Seattle, Bellingham and Portland. Police experienced no trouble in pushing back the picket lines at Seattle to facilitate the movement of goods from the piers to warehouses.

In Portland 54 registered longshoremen began unloading the British motorship Silver Cedar and another crew worked the freighter, Illinois. Picket lines swelled there but no violence occurred.

The forcible movement of cargo here followed closely two pleas by the president's labor disputes board, composed of Archbishop Edward K. Hanna, O. K. Cushing and E. P. McGrady, assistant secretary of labor, to get the strikers to return to work and submit their grievances to arbitration. Just as the battling started the president's committee announced it had been "urged to insist" that the strikers collectively with the employers decide to return to work.

Previously Attorney-General Cummings had ruled the board had no power to compel the employers to deal collectively with the various unions on strike.

At the same time, the president's committee warned all factions its plea for mediation was in fact "an appeal by the federal government and should be recognized and responded to accordingly."

The board's appeals bore no immediate fruit. The Industrial Association, which in the last few days had postponed on five different occasions its start toward "opening the port," announced its determination to go ahead and called for police protection. Chief of Police William J. Quinn immediately concentrated more than 600 officers at the waterfront.

$14,403,660 Is Loaned Georgia Home Owners

A total of 8,640 homes in Georgia have been refinanced by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation through June 30, according to a report issued by officials at the state headquarters in Atlanta. Bonds and cash amounting to $14,403,660 have been advanced to mortgages, taxing authorities and other creditors to save these homes from foreclosure or tax sale, and expended on necessary repairs, the report showed.

Investigation of applications and closing of loans have been speeded up, and the Georgia agency saved in Georgia—1,768 homes for a total amount of $3,980,258.73 during the month of June, which is by far the best record for any month since this federal agency was established. The report pointed out that the state headquarters expects to exceed this record, as everything is being done by the officials to relieve distressed home owners as speedily as it is possible to do so.

Three Are Killed As Bus Overtakes

LANCASTER, Texas, July 3.—(AP)—At least three persons were killed and ten others were injured, some seriously, when a northbound San Antonio-Dallas bus overturned and burned a mile south of Lancaster late today. The dead were not immediately identified and it was feared the death toll might reach five.

The big machine rolled over and burst into flames after a tire blew out. It was driven by Bob Downes, of Dallas, who was not seriously hurt. The dead were trapped in the car and were burned to death.

Sally Denies Censors 'Bubble Dance' Preview

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—Censors clamored for a preview of Sally (I-Wear-a-Pan) Rand's new bubble dance, but she wouldn't let them have it.

Back at the World's Fair for her initial appearance tonight, Sally defied them with the retort that they couldn't stop a show they hadn't seen yet.

"I can get an injunction to prove it," she said.

Sally's new dance has to do with a gigantic transparent bubble, which is said to float away from her, leaving her standing alone in a pair of sandals and a folk village.

GRAVE REACTIONS TO NAZI SLAYINGS SEEN BY OBSERVER

Factors of Weakness in Terrorism, Killings.

BERLIN, July 3.—(By Wirephoto.)
Viewed in the cold light of bolshevik revolutionary logic, the striking facts about the present situation in Germany are the uncertainty and lack of cohesion which exist behind a facade of secure and ruthless authority.

In Moscow, one learns to ignore superficial details and examine the main facts, irrespective both of rumor and personal prejudice.

In Germany, however, the essential facts are as follows:

First, the storm troops, who had brought Hitler to power by the use of violence and intimidation, were quiet costing 60,000 marks to the government and had become morally and politically corrupt. Strange stories are told of the orgies and the luxury in which the leaders indulged—how this one, formerly a head waiter in a Berlin café, spent thousands of marks daily for his pleasures; how another gave a quiet costing 60,000 marks to 100 guests, behind each of whom stood a waiter dressed in white satin coat, knee breeches, black silk stockings and patent leather shoes. Evidently the purging of these nazi janizaries was an imperative necessity.

Hitler Struck First.

Which leads to the second fact—to wit, that the storm troop leaders guessed what was coming and decided to resist.

The third fact was that Hitler struck first.

After he had struck in Munich and elsewhere—in this connection, the

Chile Being Menaced By Peasants' Revolt

SANTIAGO, Chile, July 3.—(AP)—A revolt of peasants in southern Chile was reported today to have reached serious proportions, with about 50 of the rioters killed in encounters with carabinieri.

Other persons had been slain, reports reaching here said, in attacks of the peasants on persons who refuse to join their movement, which is called "the movement of the landless."

A reinforcement of 200 carabinieri was rushed to Mulchen by special train today, more than doubling the force on duty there.

Leaders of the movement charged the government has not carried out its promised colonization plan and that the peasants are unable to raise sufficient crops to live on.

New Exchange Commission Head Warns Speculators on Trading

stacked too close to those who have power," Joseph P. Kennedy, chairman of the new stock market control commission, tonight said the commission would give every protection to

There isn't a big in that control bill that would worry any exchange or any honest trader," Kennedy said. "I don't see a thing in it that cannot be borne by the innocent investor."

Born to the purple in wealth and having made a fortune in "pool" operations which the new act outlawed, Kennedy outlined the hopes of the commission as he pursued a day-long search for stock market officials.

His activities in the market, he feels, have given him at least one important qualification for membership in the new body.

"I have been a stock market speculator," he believes has been typified in the stock market control bill.

"We can't hope to do anything for the fellow that goes into the market to make money in order to make enough to go on and live," he said.

"All we can do is to make the market isn't rigged. The fellow we have to watch out for is the fellow who wants to invest his money for the long run and who doesn't know just as quickly as the 'insider' the things going on in a company."

So far the cards have been stacked against the speculator.

Chairman only by virtue of an energetic fight and the benediction of President Roosevelt, Kennedy indicated that the commission had been peacefully adjusted.

He expressed great deference to James M. Landis and Ferdinand Pecora, co-authors of the stock market act, and defeated candidates for the commission.

"They know more about this law than I ever hope to know," he said. "They put their blood into it."

Kennedy has favored market regulation since the famous fight between the New York Stock Exchange and a large eastern corporation.

Efforts to determine whether Kennedy is a liberal failed when he asked reporters to agree on a definition of the term. They were unable to do so.

His attitude is best typified by the education of his eldest son. A student at Harvard, the boy was told not to study political science because his father wanted him to have vision without understanding that couldn't be obtained in a classroom.

The boy is in London now.

And the letters he writes would astound you. He's wild," Kennedy said.

Roosevelt Ahead of Schedule As Cruiser Speeds Southward

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.
ABOARD U. S. S. GILMER, ACCOMPANYING PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, July 3.—(AP)—Speeding down Atlantic coastal lanes far ahead of schedule, President Roosevelt was off the coast of Florida tonight, making 18 to 20 knots.
The cruiser Houston, in the bright sunshine of the afternoon, struck moderately smooth water and began to show her heels. Late tonight the presidential party should be off San Salvador.
President Roosevelt hoped for an opportunity for some fishing tomorrow off the Bahama Islands, his favorite fishing grounds. He has plenty of spare time in reaching Cape Hatteras Thursday, and Puerto Rico the first landing, on Friday as scheduled.
Everything appeared quiet on the Houston after a moderation of yesterday's heavy seas. This brought relief about the trailing destroyers, where there was considerable suffering from sea-sickness.
All hands were reported "okay" this morning but kept their fingers crossed. The fast pace set by the Houston kicked up a good deal of following destroyers in any kind of weather.
Reports made available to the president told of the loushoremen's situation on the west coast and it was

FREIGHT RATE ROW Nazis Deny Burial Rites IN STATE COURTS

U. S. Tribunal Invokes Johnson Act; Wilhoit Sees Parallel in Georgia.

A Florida federal court decision forcing a public utility into state courts in its fight against rate reductions, one of the first in the country based on the newly enacted Johnson act, Tuesday keenly interested Georgia officials.
The Peninsula Telephone Company carried its fight on the Florida railroad commission's rates Tuesday into state court, asking a three-judge federal court said that the Johnson act had been considered in refusing to allow the phone company to file additional information in an injunction suit.
Jud P. Wilhoit, chairman of the Georgia public service commission, which had ordered numerous utility rate reductions only to have them taken into federal courts, said the case was parallel to contempt proceedings to be heard in federal court here Thursday.
Wilhoit pointed out that the original rate reductions were enjoined that the orders were revoked and new orders issued after the Johnson act, greeted with pleasure by Georgia officials who were seeking to reduce rates, was passed.
He said the telephone companies bringing the contempt proceedings were basing their pleas on the original injunctions and that he did not believe the new orders would be classed with the previous ones.
Wilhoit contended the new rate orders, if they are to be contested, should be taken to the state courts.
The Florida federal court which in April denied an injunction against the state railroad commission to prevent it from enforcing its orders, Monday said the Johnson bill had been considered in refusing to admit additional information.
The original bill filed in December, Jud Nathan P. Bryan said, was not affected because the Johnson bill, which prevents federal courts from enjoining utility rate reductions ordered by state commissions, was retroactive, but there was some question as to whether the supplemental bill could be filed.
The company Tuesday entered the circuit court at Tallahassee, the only course left open by the Johnson law. Court attaches said they believed it was one of the first cases forced into state courts by the new law.

By A. D. STEFFERUD.
BERLIN, July 3.—(AP)—A sordid picture of ruthlessness is presented by scraps of information picked up here and there regarding the disposition of the bodies of storm troop leaders and others killed in summary executions of the week-end.
Few know, and those who do fear to tell, but it would appear that the corpses were dragged from the execution chambers and thrown into hastily dug holes in isolated spots.
There was not even the benefit of clergy which is extended after death to the most hardened criminals.
Inquiries at government offices as to whether the bodies were returned to relatives or decently buried brought shrugs and, if any direct reply at all, something like, "Who cares?"
"They were just put away," was the answer of one member of the entourage of Hermann Wilhelm Goering, who aided Chancellor Hitler in the clean-up.
The common practice in Germany for relatives of dead persons to print obituary notices in advertising columns.
Only one such notice has appeared in Berlin papers, and so far as is known, none elsewhere.
This notice was placed by relatives of Dr. Eric Kaliseuer, head of the Catholic action party.
"He was suddenly taken from us June 30, 1934, after a life of love and achievement," said the notice which stated that the relatives were bowing before the holy will of God.

CATHOLIC PRIESTS WARNED BY NAZI RATIBOR, Germany, July 3.—(AP)—A blunt warning that firing squads might be the fate of Catholic priests who "plot" against the national government, was made here by Helmut Bruckner, governor of Silesia.
Addressing a meeting of Nazi party leaders of upper Silesia, Bruckner held up Chancellor Hitler's swift action against conspirators as a serious and last warning.
Referring to priests as "sensitive old men," he threatened to catch "misleaders" and expressed the hope his warning would be sufficient for the whole of upper Silesia.
"What good does it do me when I look up a few centrist traitors?" asked Bruckner. "I had rather have them enjoy their liberty so I can catch the whole bunch."

GERMAN JEWISH MILLS TO MOVE TO BRITAIN
LONDON, July 3.—(UP)—German Jews expect little change in the regime of their race under the Nazi regime as a result of the turn toward the right in Berlin, it was indicated here today.
This was seen in news from the home secretariat, announcing the department had just issued a permit to Jewish owners of 19 German textile mills to move their entire plants from Germany to Great Britain.
Granting the permits culminated three months of negotiations with the German-Jewish manufacturers, whose total business averages about $5,000,000 in exports a year. The firms intend to lease idle factories in Lancashire, Yorkshire and in the vicinity of London, and start producing in a few weeks.

HITLER SEEKS AID OF VON HINDENBURG
Von Papen, then a prisoner in his own home.
Status Not Clear.
The exact status of Von Papen was not clear after these unexpected developments. While at first it was stated that he attended the cabinet session, it was learned later that he had not, although he had talked with Hitler earlier in the day. Guards still stood around his home.
Before this sudden development, three out of four plans for reorganizing the government, Hitler had announced that the reign of terror which swept scores of trusted but traitorous Nazi leaders to their graves was at an end.
At the same time, though, the nation was warned that Germany is ruled with an iron fist and a strong will.
After stating the stern measures were no longer in effect, the government continued to withhold its promised list of those "liquidated" by Hitler's "revolt" at "traitors" among radicals and conservatives alike.

Hitler's order ending the measures adopted to suppress the mutiny was brief and for the first time definitely named the movement the "Roehm revolt."
Measures for suppressing the Roehm revolt ended on the night of July 1, said the order, added: "Whoever on his own account, and matter with what intentions, in the wake of this action shall make himself guilty of an act of violence, will be handed over to the regular courts of justice for punishment."
These few words told volumes, since at once stroke the public was assured there will be no more "liquidations" and hotbeds were warned not to take matters into their own hands.
The belief persists some of those "liquidated," particularly the sixties, were victims of associates of Hitler acting more or less on their own initiative.
Police Show Power.
While the cabinet was holding its important session, Wilhelmstrasse again became the scene of an impressive display of police strength.
Government automobiles filled the court yard, and black-shirted members of the special Schutz Staffeln were reinforced by husky plainclothesmen and policemen in uniform.
The crowd was kept moving, and no one was permitted on the sidewalk beside the chancellery.
At the same time the inner council of the Nazi party was in session discussing the situation.
Rumors connecting members of the former royal family continued thick, but met with authentic denials.

LONG CRACKS WHIP OVER LEGISLATURE

BARTON ROUGE, La., July 3.—(AP)—With Senator Huey P. Long occupying the driver's seat, the Louisiana legislature today dug into the administration's stack of proposed legislation, doing the bidding of the "Kingfish" with regard to most of the more important bills and balking at a few others.
The Long-Allen forces suffered a temporary setback with the defeat in the house of a bill Long announced he intended to use in carrying an amendment to increase the corporation franchise tax, but Long went to work clearing the way for the proposal to pass by another route.
The desired amendment was gathered up by the senator who appeared before the house ways and means committee and saw the bill started back toward the house by a 12-to-1 vote in committee.
Previously Long had personally assembled the committee and put through bills calling for taxes of two per cent on incomes and two cents a $100 on cotton exchange future sales, himself offering motions and amendments in the names of friendly legislators seated about the committee table.

Anti-Murray Man Leads in Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 3.—(AP)—E. W. Marland, the congressman who has promised to bring Oklahoma into the Roosevelt "New Deal," stepped well in front of his 14 opponents for the democratic nomination as governor on the face of mounting returns tonight.
Speaker Tom Anglin, flying the colors of Governor "Alfalfa Bill" Murray, ran second as returns piled up slowly.
From 162 precincts out of 3,352 Marland had 5,373 votes; Anglin, 3,960; "Iron Jack" Walton, once re-elected as governor, 2,679; Homer

Smith, Oklahoma City attorney, 1,977; Attorney General J. Berry King, 1,837, and Lieutenant Governor Robert Burns, 1,008. These were the leaders.

FREIGHT RATE HEARING WILL CONTINUE TODAY

The Fourth of July will be just another day for the Georgia public service commission, which at the moment is investigating railroad freight rates.
Chairman Jud P. Wilhoit said Tuesday the commission would continue studying testimony submitted by railroads in questionnaires. There has been little interest from the outside in the present hearing since all the testimony is in writing.

Atlanta Wife Makes Pathetic Plea For Return of Missing Husband

An appealing plea was made today by Mrs. W. G. Halford, of 1049 Juniper street, N. E., for The Constitution to help her find her husband, who has been missing since last Saturday afternoon.
"Ask him to call me or write to me if he is alive," Mrs. Halford said. Her husband's absence has prostrated her and she has not eaten a meal since he mysteriously disappeared after leaving his work at a College Park drugstore where he is pharmacist. It was necessary to summon a physician for Mrs. Halford Tuesday night.

time factors are important—there came the fourth fact in the shape of the killings of General von Schleicher and his wife, of Vice Chancellor von Papen's entourage and of other members of the so-called right.
Fifth, an attempt was made to link the rightist element with the storm troops in a gigantic plot against the regime and a "foreign power" is brought in to lend weight to the story. How far this story is true is not vital for the moment. On its face, it appears flimsy and too convenient to be really credible, but the history of conspiracies records unexpected combinations.
Little Resistance.
Sixth, the punitive action was carried out, almost without resistance, by the black-garbed Nazi storm guard and special police, who, united, total more than 300,000—with the support of the army, or reichswehr. The latter today probably is the most efficient and most highly disciplined force of its size in the world. Its present numbers are estimated around 200,000, with probably an equal number of reserve troops who have passed through the ranks in recent years.
Originally, the reichswehr was more or less a "white guard"—that is, its prime function was to protect the country against radical revolutionary disturbances. Otherwise, it has been non-political and, in the main, marked by the characteristic blind loyalty of trained, disciplined Germans to their rulers.

HENRY, PRINCE CONSORT OF HOLLAND, SUCCEUMBS

THE HAGUE, Netherlands, July 3.—(AP)—Henry, prince consort of the Netherlands, died suddenly this afternoon of heart disease, the end coming before Queen Wilhelmina could reach his side.
While the 55-year-old husband of the queen had been ill for several days, he had shown improvement until shortly before his death at 3 p. m. The prince consort was stricken in his office at Red Cross headquarters June 28, and the queen hurried home from Switzerland where she was on a holiday.
JOHN W. LAMBETH.
THOMASVILLE, N. C., July 3.—(AP)—John W. Lambeth Sr., 66, Thomasville financier and manufacturer and father of Congressman J. Walter Lambeth, of the eighth North Carolina district, died today at the Baptist hospital in Winston-Salem where he had been a patient for a month.
Surviving in addition to Congressman Lambeth is one daughter, Mrs. T. Austin Finch, wife of the member of the first NRA industrial advisory board.

OUTING IS ARRANGED BY MINISTERS' UNION
Plans for an annual outing were announced at the weekly meeting Tuesday of the A. M. E. Zion, C. M. E., M. E. and Congregational Ministers' Union, held at the Central Methodist Episcopal church.
The outing is to be held July 10 and the union is to assemble at the Central Methodist church, 507 Mitchell street, S. W., at 7 o'clock, on the morning of that day.

of those who fall are provoked to reaction.
Will Strike at Party's Roots.
Fourth, the process of purging the storm troops, which must be continued, will strike deep at the roots of the Nazi party.
Then, fifth, the former ruling classes of Germany—junkers and commercial magnates and higher functionaries and the old "officer class"—who accepted nazism more or less unwillingly as an alternative to worse evils, are failing to realize that the location of the storm troops has a sense, weakened Hitler's position. It must be true also that they are no less outraged by the killings of members of the "right" than delighted by the executions of members of the "left."
The army, which fundamentally represents especially the higher ranks—this influential section of German life, suddenly has become the keystone of the regime. If it took decisive action, it could crumple the special police and the storm guards like paper.
For the time being, it seems clear that anything of this kind is unlikely to be done. As I said, the army is loyal to established authority and, above all, to Von Hindenburg, who makes no sign save gestures of endorsing Hitler and appearing Goering's "energy." Nevertheless, the seeds of discord exist and it must never be forgotten that no situation is static; that each action produces a reaction and that every deed is followed by another, along an implacable course.
Finally, there remains the danger against which no rulers can guard—assassination, child of terrorism. Hitler and his associates have shown unworried courage, even recklessness, in this respect. Only yesterday, when Hitler and Goering visited the king of Spain at the Hotel Adlon, one desperate man with a pistol could have plunged Germany into chaos. Here, today, this danger must be great because many of the victims of the recent punitive action had a sexually perverted attraction for their friends. Who can tell to what rash act of revenge one of these bereaved, half-crazed and abnormal creatures may be impelled?

GERMAN JEWISH MILLS TO MOVE TO BRITAIN

LONDON, July 3.—(UP)—German Jews expect little change in the regime of their race under the Nazi regime as a result of the turn toward the right in Berlin, it was indicated here today.
This was seen in news from the home secretariat, announcing the department had just issued a permit to Jewish owners of 19 German textile mills to move their entire plants from Germany to Great Britain.
Granting the permits culminated three months of negotiations with the German-Jewish manufacturers, whose total business averages about $5,000,000 in exports a year. The firms intend to lease idle factories in Lancashire, Yorkshire and in the vicinity of London, and start producing in a few weeks.

Removal of the mills from Germany was arranged with the consent of Chancellor Adolf Hitler, because the manufacturers pledged to purchase a fixed proportion of raw materials in Germany.
The project was designed mainly to evade the Jewish anti-German boycott abroad, as the move will enable the producers to use the "made in Britain" trade marks.
Their output will be chiefly women's and children's clothing.
Simultaneously, the ministry of labor issued permits to a limited number of German "key" workers from Germany to enter Britain to start the factories, but the majority of employees will be British.

as "sensitive old men," they would face firing squads if they "plot" against the government.
Daare's newspaper said ominously that "Jews had a hand in this conspiracy," although nothing to indicate activities against Jews has developed.
The well guarded Wilhelmstrasse continued all day to draw crowds of men, women and children to stare at the chancellery's home.

During the cabinet session hundreds were there, but all were silent—no body wanted to be caught up in a chance remark.
Xobdry, it is, except one bald, elderly man in a third-hand suit, clambered on a bench and proclaimed: "I could tell Hitler a few things he doesn't know. It's a great secret."

Hitler gave the cabinet a full report of the attempted uprising of storm troop leaders and of the ruthless methods of summary executions by which it was quelled.
General Werner von Blomberg, minister of defense, was delegated by his colleagues to Hitler for "saving the country from civil war."

"In the name of the cabinet and of the defense forces," the minister expressed his attitude of the "courageous and decisive action through which the nation was spared a civil war."
The cabinet found time to adopt a number of laws, one of which forbids solicitation of funds on streets, in restaurants and other public places.
This law will find just about universal endorsement by the German public, which has been sorely tried by the constant taking of collections by storm troops and other Nazi organizations.

The cabinet gave formal legal sanction to the executions, adopting a law which stated:
"Measures adopted to quell the highly treasonable attacks on June 30 and July 1 and 2 are legal because they were undertaken as measures for the protection of the state when in danger."
It was decided also that henceforth the chief of the storm troops will not hold a cabinet post, as did the executed Roehm.

A number of other minor decrees were enacted.
VATICAN NEWSPAPER CRITICIZES IMMORALITY
VATICAN CITY, July 3.—(AP)—Chancellor Hitler's execution squads have not eliminated the causes of the crisis, the Vatican official newspaper, said today, because those crises are to be found deep in the immorality of New Germany.
"The situation presents unknown possibilities," said the newspaper. "Although order has been assured by execution platoons, these have not eliminated the causes of the crisis."
These causes are very profound inasmuch as they touch the spiritual roots of civilization and the moral customs of a political ruling class, which has not disdained to wander off from Christian precepts on the wobbly wings of an atheistic and racist philosophy.

"The Hitlerian troops have been sent on vacation and one cannot foresee what may be the outcome of the process of dissolution of the attack squadrons."
"The gravity of the situation is revealed by the necessity of having recourse to extreme measures in order to guarantee order and by the necessity of warning that whoever criticizes the work of the government risks his head."

Before the cabinet assembled for today's session Hitler received Von Papen for a brief conference, meeting him for the first time since the vice chancellor was made a prisoner in his own private residence Saturday.
For a time the guards were withdrawn from Von Papen's home, but later they were restored.

The presence of the guards, from one point of view, is a tribute to Von Papen, since they may be there to protect him from hot-blooded Nazis.
President Von Hindenburg's warning that the reichswehr must protect Von Papen was followed by an increase in the number of guards on duty.

More Sabre-Rattling.
There was still a bit of sabre-rattling at anti-nazis here and there today, despite Hitler's warning that "special measures" were suspended.

3 Bandits Get $150 In Holdup of Store

Three youthful negroes, one armed, held up and robbed the R. A. Silverman grocery store at 238 Edgewood avenue shortly before 9 o'clock and took $137.58 from the cash register, and $15 from Silverman himself.

Silverman, his wife, and a negro employee were closing the store for the night when the bandits came in. One held a pistol on the three while his companions robbed the cash drawer and took money from Silverman's pocket. They backed out of the store and ran. The victims told Officers R. L. Mosley and B. W. Mannard that all three negroes were about 20 years old.

FARM ACT WILL MEAN LITTLE IN STATE-HADEN
Charles J. Haden, chairman of the Georgia farm debt adjustment commission, said Tuesday that it is unlikely that many Georgia farmers will take advantage of the farm mortgage act.

"The people of Georgia," he declared, "have a high debt paying average. The federal records show that in repayment of the seed and drought loans, the percentage of Georgia leads all southern states. The Georgia farmer, except in extreme cases, will not allow his name to go on the records of the federal bankruptcy courts."

ATLANTA, GA., JULY 4, 1934.

Major Walter C. Hendrix, head of the public works department, which has supervision over the penal system of the county, is to be recommended for his approval of the recommendation of the May-June grand jury for abolition of the Fulton county chain gang.

The entire chain gang system of the state should be abolished as out-of-date, effete and semi-barbaric, and some plan should be put into operation that is more humane, less costly and more in keeping with civilized times.

In the larger counties which are financially able to care for their prisoners in the manner which obtains in Fulton county there is small cause for objection; but in the smaller counties, debt-ridden and with no money for schools and other necessary county functions, hospitalization for sick prisoners is impossible, and the quarters in which they are frequently confined are a disgrace to civilization.

No matter how well chain gang prisoners may be treated in the larger counties, the entire system is judged by its weaker links, and that conditions are extremely bad in some counties there can be no doubt.

A solution of the problem, as far as this state is concerned, has been reached by Governor Talmadge in the project of a great state prison for the care of all felony convicts from all the counties of the state. The federal government has agreed to advance almost a million and a half dollars for the erection of such a state prison in Tattall county, and plans for the structure, which will be the most modern state prison in the Union, have about been completed.

Options on between 700 and 800 acres of land have been secured, and the only hitch now seems to be concerning a road which runs through the property, and for which the federal government wants to be assured that a release may be obtained.

Under Georgia law, any road which has been used by the public for the period of 10 years becomes a public road, and to have it closed requires definite legal action.

It is a technical matter, and the commissioners of Tattall county should lose no time in taking the necessary legal steps that will remove this obstacle.

This small item is the only cause of the delay in starting construction of this great project. The carrying out of Governor Talmadge's plan will mean a great step forward in a complete revision of our penal system and an end to the intolerable chain gang system.

A TALE OF TWO CITIES.

One of the numerous CWA projects was the census or housing survey conducted in 64 cities of the United States. This survey was more or less lost sight of in the rush of government work. But its first reports are now at hand and they are of more than passing interest.

Richmond and Charleston were the two Southern cities reported on. The one was the capital of the Confederacy; the other was the city which heard the first shot of the War Between the States.

Richmond's population, covered by the survey, was listed at about 185,000. There were 34,957 family residence units listed for Richmond. It was a bit startling to learn that only 716 of Richmond's homes were 75 years or more old.

Charleston, with a population of 65,000, had 2,023 homes more than 75 years old. The family residential units were found to be 17,911 in number.

It was found that in Richmond 19,007 homes lacked bath tubs; 79 per cent were lighted by electricity, 44 per cent depended on coal or wood stoves for cooking; 14,102 homes had mechanical refrigeration, and 6,374 homes included backyard gardens of a size which permitted the production of garden produce in an amount tending to really make a material difference in food bills. Heat was supplied to 63 per cent of the homes by stoves.

Charleston showed 10,076 homes lacked bathtubs or showers; heat was supplied to 13,516 homes by stoves; 63 per cent used coal or wood stoves for cooking; only 1,637 homes had mechanical refrigeration and 258 had gardens.

The reports show a decided decrease in building operations. It was particularly marked in Charleston, where it was said, less than 4,000 homes have been built in the past 15 years.

One-fourth of Richmond's dwellings rent for not more than $15 per month; more than half of Charleston's homes were in this list. This survey of course, included all dwellings used as unit homes. It was shown conclusively that the poorer dwelling places do not provide sufficient opportunities for cleanliness and what we know as modern conveniences and comforts.

When reports of the larger cities are in we shall undoubtedly have a new impetus for the eradication of slums and the providing of more sanitary and comfortable dwelling places at a small rental.

Much valuable statistical matter is being provided in these reports.

NEW MOVE TO CUT COUNTIES.

The Atlanta Exchange Club has joined the ranks of those engaged in the fight to reduce the number of counties in Georgia, with a movement that will stir up more interest in this needed reform, and it has all the elements of just what is needed to get some real action.

Leading off a resolution with six sections, each one beginning with a "whereas," in which is set forth pertinent reasons for a county reduction, it winds up with a call for every exchange club in Georgia to get behind the movement in their section of the state, and to urge co-operation from other civic organizations in the work of having county consolidations publicly approved and recommended.

There are 159 counties, in every one of which there is a county seat—city or town. In most of these there is either an Exchange, Rotary, Kiwanis, Civitan, Lions, or other civic club; in some places there are several of these organizations, and their memberships are composed of the leading business and professional men of that section.

Few of them are politicians, and but a small number of them will be found holding some county office. They are interested in their own business prosperity, that of their section and the people living therein. They, best of all, know the hardships put upon taxpayers, especially in the small counties, and they also know that the remedy lies in a consolidation of several small counties into one large unit, which will greatly reduce the cost of county government, and give to the people the benefits of better schools and other civic advantages to which they are entitled.

If they keep on inventing safety devices for automobiles, soon they will be as safe as airplanes.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Decline of Liberalism.

An observer, after scanning the horizon, comes to the conclusion that liberalism is everywhere on the decline. "What has become of the once powerful liberal party of Great Britain?" he asks, and he points to the handful of followers of Mr. Lloyd George in the house of commons, among whom are the Welshman's own daughter, Megan, and his son, Major Lloyd George.

And what of France? "Staid old conservatives are in power," he remarks. But enough of looking around the world. Let us turn to our own country. Perhaps it is true, but that observer makes one fundamental miscalculation. Liberal parties are waning everywhere, except perhaps in America, but the liberal spirit will never die. It is uncurable. There is more liberal thinking among men in all parties today than there has ever been in this world. The depression has given people a new sense of criticism. There are far more challenges to the status quo today than ever before. This is not to be deplored. Self-criticism is the most helpful thing in the world. Strong men want to be criticized, spiritually and mentally. They welcome criticism, for it is like a rudder to help them steer a straight course.

The Canadian Church.

Clergymen throughout the United States would do well to take a glance at the doings in the great United Church of Canada, that vast Christian body which is made up of a union of Methodists, Presbyterians and Congregationalists. A new current is sweeping through that church. I would not say it is growing socialistic, but it is certainly anti-capitalistic. Last year the Toronto conference passed a motion condemning the present system of capitalism. It called for a new harmony with the divine plan. This year, it appears, the synodal conference might even go further.

Apart from the message of Christ no longer brought the message fit for the day and times is at the bottom of the ferment in Canada. If it but a repetition of what has taken place in the other Protestant countries, notably Holland, Switzerland, Denmark and to a large extent also Germany.

The Church in Germany.

You all know that psalm which begins with the words, "The Lord loveth the righteous." Well, the Nazi reformers in the Evangelical church, who are busily rewriting the Bible, have made that to read: "The Lord loveth the Teutonic." Fore and foremost, they take delight in warriors like Herman and Frederick the Red Beard. Herman was the skin-clad Teuton, who came with his followers with huge clubs and swept down on the Roman legions under Varus as they were making their way through the Black Forest. By the time the Romans had been driven back, Frederick Barbarossa, who loved Germany so well that he never stayed there, but spent his time in his domains in Italy.

Apart from the utter folly of trying to change the Bible texts, really a childish business, the new regime in Germany is not very happy in picking up the sword of the Teutonic knights. He refused to speak the German language, said it was a barbaric tongue.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY

ALCOHOLIC PROPAGANDA.

A major cause of the physical ailments of the United States are members or fellows of the American Medical Association, who are the greatest medical society in the world. It is the only one which officially voices what we may fairly consider the consensus of medical opinion in this country upon a medical or health question of importance.

A few years ago the American Medical Association officially adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, We believe that the use of alcohol is detrimental to the human economy; and

"Whereas, its use in therapeutics as a tonic or stimulant and for food has no scientific value; therefore,

"Be it resolved, that the American Medical Association is opposed to the use of alcohol as a beverage; and

"Be it further resolved, that the use of alcohol as a therapeutic agent should be discouraged."

As this has never been rescinded we may fairly take it as the official view of the majority of reputable physicians.

But since the American Medical Association so expressed its attitude a new Daniel has come to judgment in the councils of the association and now through every available avenue of public intelligence (at least every avenue that pays) the alcoholic propaganda is being spread by the moral support of that new Daniel who speaks as the official representative of the American Medical Association.

If there is any little discrepancy between the association's official views and the pronouncements of the association's loud speaker, this new Daniel should worry. Or, say, the medical profession doesn't pay its loud speaker enough.

One of the latest bluffs of the small end of the A. M. A.'s loud speaker is the startling assurance that a highball yields as much nourishment as a plate of ham and eggs. The association's bla-bla man should have qualified the statement by adding "would yield to me." Even then it would have been a gross exaggeration of the nutritive value of the ingredients of the highball. Two eggs unseasoned yield 150 calories, the mention of the vitamins, calcium, phosphorus, lecithin and other desirable elements in eggs. Not even a confirmed old drunk who has capacity to oxidize and utilize alcohol in the place of food is for a time increased above the normal, could possibly get that much energy or nutriment from a highball, because it isn't in the highball. So in case you want to put this matter to a test, I'll take the ham and eggs and you take the highball and I'll leave you far in the rear. Or equip me with a ham and a basket of eggs and you take all the highball ingredients you can carry, and we'll see who can hold out longer on his ration.

The power of the body to oxidize, burn, utilize, metabolize, convert into heat or energy or store as tissue material, the substance of Daniel's is limited. The best guess of this is the odor of the breath after an alcoholic beverage has been taken. If you can detect the odor of alcohol or aldehyde on the breath you know the individual has taken more alcohol than he can utilize as fuel.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON.

GERMANY

WASHINGTON, July 3.—It seems that big shot Hitler adopted Al Capone's methods for the same reason Al did. His own gang was getting restless and the radicals were trying to muscle him.

At least, that is the trustworthy version of Hitler's massacre accepted by the inner circle crowd here. They base their views on confidential official dispatches from abroad and private consultation with some Nazi insiders.

The tip has been going around for some time that the great body of storm troops was restless underneath. The newness of their uniforms had worn off. They were beginning to realize they were getting less money from Hitler than they had received under the dole from his predecessors. A majority probably would have been ready for revolt very soon.

Whether a definite revolt had been organized probably never will be known. Hitler will be able to offer proof that it existed, but few authorities here will believe that proof.

They rather suspect that Herr Hitler acted on the theory that a massacre in time saves nine.

In other words, he picked out a few prospective heads of a probable revolt and mowed them down for the beneficial effect it would have on the storm troop rank and file.

HITLER Those who know Hitler see someone else's hand in the coup. He talks big, but they doubt that he is inherently ruthless enough to have conceived of the massacre-in-time policy.

For a long time they have suspected that perhaps he was merely a front office showman being carefully handled by the anti-radical elements. His most recent activities have strengthened those suspicions.

If they were looking for the brains of the murder policy they would search first in the crowd.

EXCUSES

The way the Hitler propagandists played up the immorality of their murdered leaders was a clear tip that something was wrong with their case.

If they had had good excuses, they would not have stressed such a bad one.

The immorality charge is supposed to be true in the case of Captain Roehm, but there was nothing new about it. Hitler knew it for it years and condoned it. In fact, Roehm once wrote a book on the subject, and it was published.

Furthermore, if depravity is a new ground for murder in Germany, it had not yet been applied, at the time this was written, to another Hitler leader who was once treated as a morphine addict. This leader sat through the massacre at Hitler's right hand, although his addiction is a matter of public record.

CENSORSHIP

Newsmen who know the inside of Nazi censorship methods say the censors do not often eliminate material from dispatches going out to foreign papers. They do keep very close track of such material and, occasionally, foreign correspondents are intimidated and expelled.

The main reason honest news is hard to get in Germany is that the local newspapers there are all under the Nazi thumb, a foreign correspondent must go out to get his own news, and that is just as hard as it would be for a single German correspondent in this country to try to find out what is going on throughout this country all by himself.

REACTION

The inner reaction here to the June 30 slaughter was very much, but they like Roehm even less.

They passed out the whisper that the bloody holiday might make for European peace by entrenching Hitler, but, on the inside, they admitted Hitler was by no means out of the woods yet. They predicted the outcome would rest on the question of whether Hitler had succeeded in frightening the storm troop rank and file into docility.

They differed as to his prospects. One crowd holds he cannot last, the other recalls that the reds and Muscovites were always going to overthrow him momentarily, and they were in the early stages of their revolutions, but they both seem to be getting on rather well today.

STOCKS

The man who recommended Joseph Kennedy as head of the stock exchange commission is supposed to have been Professor Moley. Kennedy is an old friend of both Roosevelt and Moley.

The liberals are quite well satisfied with him, despite his Wall Street record. They say there ought to be at least one man on the commission who knows Wall Street from the Wall Street end. They would rather have Kennedy than any other Wall Streeter whose name has been mentioned.

The financial boys are apparently satisfied also. At least, they profess to be, although they are certainly outnumbered on the commission at least 4 to 1 and probably 5 to 0.

The answer to that is they have to be.

You Can't Be a Good Roman Unless You Live as the Romans Do

By Robert Quillen

Specialists and faddists in ever-increasing number advocate diets, baths and exercises to promote and reserve good health.

Perhaps some of their advice is good, but in ordinary cases the preservation of health requires no more than obedience to three simple rules that were known to our fathers.

Do all things in moderation; live a natural life; and don't worry. Man alone spoils his pleasures by gluttony.

The only cigarettes he enjoys to the fullest are the first one in the morning and the first after meals. Yet he smokes one after another, all day long, until they begin to taste like fried sole leather and afford no enjoyment at all.

If he enjoys the drink he swallows half a dozen more that serve only to add to his wits and fill him with poison.

He eats so much and so fast that he never savors the full flavor of anything, and much of his food does him more harm than good.

He would find everything more enjoyable if he denied himself and waited for keen desire, and the practice of moderation would enable him to gratify his appetites without a penalty.

The second rule—that of living naturally—is more difficult to follow in an artificial civilization, but it can be done in the measure that health requires.

Animals in a state of nature live much in the open air, but they find shelter in winter and shade in summer. That much is easy to do. The one further requirement is exercise, and again animals set the example. They play in youth to develop their bodies. Once fully matured, they exert themselves enough to get their food and no more. They take no violent exercise for its own sake, and therefore develop no heart trouble.

The last rule is perhaps most important, for the state of the body is wholly at the mercy of the state of mind. Anger, fear and anxiety stop digestion and fill the body with poisons. Avoiding the poison merely a matter of cultivating the habit of self-control. It is wholly a matter of choice. Whether you indulge in childish outbursts and foolish worries or maintain the calm of a well-poised grown-up, you act of your own free will in full knowledge of the consequence and thus deliberately choose your hurt or reward.

July the Fourth

Remembering Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The roasting heat is thundering out the nation's birthday. And grateful hearts are leaping to the anthems of the free. The proud old streaming banner, all spanned with stars and stripes, comes whipping through the breezes in a grand salute to Mars!

The nation from Gethsemane where long it prayed For human freedom, forms the grand parade. And merry hearts are throbbing for the life and hopeful light. That's breaking from the heavens to the hills of lore's delight.

They hail the Lord loved chiefest, who so loved forgotten man. He took his life in ransom, blessed savior of the land: He shall be blessed eternal, Christ, sinners came to grace. But he rescues the people, purchased liberty for the slave.

And the roving bands go thundering the anthems of the free: And grateful hearts are leaping to the anthems of the free: The proud old streaming banner all spanned with stars and stripes, comes whipping through the breezes in a grand salute to Mars!

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

U. S. BUILDINGS MUST BE EXCLUSIVE.

NEW YORK, N. Y., July 3.—There is one great flaw in the government's ambition to establish the American people in nice, individual homes where the green grass grows all around; it will be practically impossible to keep the riff-raff and any real estate agent who has dealt in such properties will tell you that the American citizen is quite particular about this.

The American citizen is very democratic and all that but he does not wish to live in the same block with socially undesirable families whose presence lowers the tone of the neighborhood and depresses property values. The word "exclusive" is one of the favorite adjectives of the real estate dealer and, though it has many grades of meaning, it generally tries to mean that the riff-raff is rigorously excluded.

There are many grades of riff-raff, and which one is considered exclusive in one subdivision is likely to be regarded as riff-raff by the inhabitants of the English-brick or Spanish bungalow many a mile further up the hill or closer to the water.

One, in turn, will be looked down upon as the veriest trash by the $10,000-a-year families whose half-acre plots include a two-old beach and automatic membership in the refined and exclusive community bath and tennis club.

RIFF-RAFF EXCLUDED. Even in Palm Beach, Fla., there are able to look down upon elements of the population in their homes in the communities but their own intrusion on that tropic isle has occasioned serious unrest among the families who really belong. In fact, Palm Beach is not what it was before.

Tom, Dick and Harry began to make money and buy or build homes promiscuously. Naturally, they attracted the riff-raff and the riff-raff came to stay. Palm Beach nowadays is overrun with undesirable. One never knows who will buy a home at a forced sale and move in, kill and kill and kill in the end and simply be forced to give up and move away.

By that time, the new element will have consolidated their position and will be holding meetings of their protective association to view with alarm the infiltration of a new riff-raff. Possibly, at some remote and unthinkable day, a family of foreigners will move in and be abandoned suddenly by the name of Miramar or Aqua Vista and keep chickens and a pet cow in the back garden or yard. There is always a house named Miramar and another named Aqua Vista in an exclusive colony on the shore.

JUMPING HORSES

DESIRED NEIGHBORS. Mr. Roosevelt evinces an amusing ignorance of the social ambitions of his subjects when he suggests that the American family would enjoy to keep a cow on the family premises. The keeping of any useful livestock on the family plot is a positive sign of social degradation.

It is an inexcusable sign of an injunction or run right out of almost any "desirable" community for maintaining a nuisance if you were to install chickens to say the least. The chickens, however, provided they were thoroughbred, and a stable of jumpers would be a social disgrace to the community.

A stable of jumpers would be a social disgrace to the community. A stable of jumpers would be a social disgrace to the community. A stable of jumpers would be a social disgrace to the community.

Chickens or a cow, or goat bespeak economy which in turn suggests poverty and thus constitute a blot on the reputation of the subdivision and will blow to the values of the neighboring homes.

MIGRATION OF ELITES

The trouble lies finally in the preposterousness and push of the lower orders which will not keep their place, but constantly strive to crowd themselves into the presence of their betters. This push pushed some of the most exclusive old American families right out of the United States and over to the other side of the globe.

It was going on. It pushed persons of inferior station from their kitchenette apartments in town into the dingy jungles in the suburbs and gradually farther out to abandoned farm lands 20 miles from town which came to be known as estates.

Many families made the move from the city to the country and went to the kennel or the stable of jumpers in the period between 1920 and 1929.

They were compelled to keep moving to stay ahead of the riff-raff which came out from the tenements to crowd them out of the kitchenettes and to crowd them out of the suburbs pursued in turn by other riff-raff who would not keep their place.

It would be very nice, indeed, to establish a people in homes of their own under government supervision but for the fact in the land of opportunity there is a little bit of Vanderbilt in the poorest toiler and he will not give up the ultimate goal of the common man.

TEN GEORGIA CITIES TO PICK "PEACHES" FOR FAIR CONTEST

Ten Georgia cities have arranged for peach balls to be selected at individual balls on the basis of popularity, charm and personality, and will give a free trip to the fair. The prize winners will be invited guests on the Georgia Day Special train, which will carry the governor and his staff to the fair grounds on Georgia Day there, September 25.

Whole 24 hours. Housewives and cooks are expected to work harder than usual, although they have been given a formal announcement to that effect.

Only one sad note has entered the Jazz Fourth of July symphony. The Tuesday night of the celebration is unable to make good will have to stay in jail all day today and twiddle their thumbs until the court meets Thursday.

It has been suggested that they be supplied with a dozen or so sky-rockets and Roman candles to play with during the day.

Once upon a time, as the story goes, the grand and glorious Fourth was a day to blow off the lid of everyday monotony, but this year's outlook is comparative quiet. The hullabaloo has given way to mere frolicking. Whether the change is due to repeal, to the depression, or to the weather nobody has decided.

The Fourth usually is a day of joy, but also can be a day of sorrow. Fire Chief O. J. Parker pointed out in warning Atlantans against carelessness in handling fireworks. Not only can property damage and loss result, but personal injury is not considered, he said.

section of the state. Governor Talmadge is again illustrating the fact that he never breaks an engagement.

Months ago he accepted an invitation to speak in Decatur county today and when two opponents announced against him there was a widespread demand that he open the campaign July 4 in some middle Georgia city. Macon sought to get him there. Other cities, including his home city of Macon, wanted the address, but the governor already having agreed to go to Bainbridge put aside all of these demands and decided to open his campaign there.

A record crowd is expected despite the fact that at Bainbridge the governor can draw from only two directions, north and east, whereas if he opened his campaign in a more centrally located city he could draw from all four directions. Alabama is on the west of Bainbridge and Florida on the south, but the governor's friends and Tammany Hall, the Decatur county organization sponsoring today's event, are confident that despite these great handicaps upwards of 20,000 will be on hand to hear the address.

A monster barbecue, at which the Tammany Hall Club is prepared to feed more than 25,000, will follow the speaking program, which will begin at 10:30 o'clock. The governor's speech will begin promptly at 11 o'clock.

Following the barbecue the people of southwest Georgia will dedicate the Pat Griffin Memorial highway which

PITTMAN ANSWERS

LOAN FUND CHARGE

Says Emory U. Has Never Expressed Dissatisfaction With Repayment.

Judge Claude C. Pittman, opposing Governor Eugene Talmadge for the nomination in the September 12 primary, Tuesday answered charges made against him Monday by Marion Williamson and released through Hugh Howell, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, that Pittman owed Emory University money borrowed when he was in school.

His statement follows in full: "I notice that Hugh Howell, campaign manager of Governor Talmadge, issues a statement from Marion Williamson, in which he says that I still owe a balance to Emory College on a loan made to aid me in obtaining an education.

"I was reared on a farm, one of a large family. My people were poor. I obtained my education through very trying circumstances—I had to borrow money from whatever source I could obtain it. I borrowed $1,000 from a farmer in Whitfield county. I paid him back in full. I borrowed $200 from Emory College loan fund. I have paid $400 principal and interest, of this amount back, but still owe a small balance, which I have kept renewed and the interest paid. I borrowed $40 from the Brown loan fund at the University of Georgia. This I have also paid back. When I got out of college I helped some of my brothers and sisters to obtain their education.

"Emory University has never shown any dissatisfaction with my plan of payment to it. Most of the Emory University authorities are my friends and they gave me the information this morning that Marion Williamson went through Emory College as a ministerial student and that he now owes $223, plus interest, for indebtedness incurred 11 years ago.

"If my conscience had ever permitted me to obtain money in the manner that Hugh Howell, Marion Williamson and other members of the pardon racket have obtained it, I would have been spared the embarrassment of this moment.

"The following is a copy of an original letter in my possession signed by Marion Williamson that reveals more than I can tell of his connection with the pardon racket: Atlanta, February 14, 1924.

Mr. Walsh Henshaw, 1111 Street, LaGrange, Ga.

Dear Sir:—My associate, Mr. Sheela, has just informed me of his conversation with you yesterday concerning our contract. I was very much surprised to hear that you were taking the attitude that he reports. When I wrote Mr. Sheela last night, I thought that you would live up to your agreement with me. You assured me that there would be "no fumble at your end of the line" and asked that I proceed to help you on that assumption.

"As you will note from your file of our correspondence, that I wanted the other attorney to understand his status, I wanted this understanding in order to protect you, and also that I not have any legal advantage of the attorney. Of course, from a legal standpoint the understanding that you had with him would have no legal effect on the contract that I had with you. I do not doubt but that you consider that my efforts in your behalf in the compensation matter and in your client's matter were beneficial to you. Had you not sent me a receipt for the $150 placed in the hands of the bank in care of me, after you had drawn it down from the bank yourself, you advised my office to forward a bill for the balance which I did not receive the said $150. The bank was unauthorized to refund to you the money placed in escrow.

"Mr. Sheela informs me that you denied having definitely agreed to proceed to refund on your case, refresh your memory by reviewing the letter of November 25 to me. This letter together with the receipt slip of the bank in accordance with our agreement definitely authorized me to make the effort in your behalf which I did.

"General Camp and I spent a great deal of time preparing and working on your case, and these efforts were in vain. I know that they were beneficial in securing your release. However, I have no desire to go to jail.

"No suit has ever been entered and no judgment rendered against me, my father or any of my people. No one can say that he has ever lost a dollar on me or any of my people. The same can not be said of Talmadge and the members of his household.

"The general execution docket of Telfair county shows that Judge Max L. McRae, companion of Charlie Stewart, confidant of Talmadge, and members of the highway board, has had 32 executions recorded against him since 1918 for a total sum of $46,944.76.

"Execution docket of Jeff Davis county shows that Tom Linder, former secretary to the governor and assistant campaign manager, has had seven executions recorded against him prior to his moving in to the capital in the amount of more than $10,000.

"Hugh Howell went through Emory College as a ministerial student. Ministerial students do not have to borrow money to pay tuitions. After getting his education he became a lawyer, a lobbyist for big interests, and a pardon racketeer just as Marion Williamson seems to have done.

"Let Hugh Howell explain how he has avoided the payment of many thousands of dollars in taxes on gasoline when he was in the oil business a few years ago, which is still owed to the state as shown by the record of the comptroller general's office.

"On February 28, 1927, the Swift Fertilizer Company obtained a judgment in the amount of $2,324.44 against Eugene Talmadge for fertilizer used on his Telfair county farm. After Talmadge got in power a settlement was made with Swift Fertilizer Company for a small sum. Let the governor explain how much of that indebtedness was paid in money and how much was stricken from the record by the exercise of his official power."

'CHISELERS' ASSAILED

BY HEAD OF EDUCATORS

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—"Chiseling" the word President Roosevelt helped write into the national language, was given added prestige tonight by Jessie Gray, of Philadelphia, president of the National Education Association.

In an address to the association's annual convention, she condemned "chiselers" who, she said, had been intent on cutting the tree of life down to its roots.

The teacher criticized tax economists as well as foes of education, "because," she explained, "they know neither how to raise taxes yet nor how best to apportion them so that the relative importance of governmental functions shall be held in the righteous balance of finer judgment."

PRODUCE SKEETERETTE

Officials of the P. D. G. Laboratories, manufacturers of chemical specialties at 452-6 North avenue, N. E., announced a novelty Tuesday—"Skeeterette," which banishes mosquitoes.

This preparation is inclosed in a bag which may be hung at the head of the bed, or from lights in a room. The chemical releases a gas which is harmless to persons, but death on mosquitoes, the company says.

Harry A. Glaser, the sales manager, received a letter from Milo Smith, manager of the Cash Wholesale Company, of Dublin, praising Skeeterette. He hung it in his garage, where thousands of mosquitoes swarmed, and was astonished on going in later to find all the pests gone.

The company also manufactures Moch-Blot, which is also in the form of a bag that may be put among clothes to keep moths out. The chemical in this is perfumed.

The company, of which Paul de Gaurand is president, owns an extensive laboratory in its North avenue quarters and has salesmen on the road selling its products.

If Hugh and Charlie want their day in court on that, I will meet them there with my witnesses.

Germany Is Compared With South After Civil War by Noted Author

Perhaps the executions of storm troops in Germany was the only way to avoid the loss of thousands of lives under a new revolution, said Dr. Colin Ross, famous German author and traveler, Tuesday. Dr. Ross is spending some time in the south to complete his investigations of the American economic and political situation, preparatory to writing a new book.

Dr. Ross declined to express an opinion on the present German situation. He said that he could not correctly judge the events from such a distance, but hoped that Hitler's latest move would avert a revolution.

"Germany is now like the south after the Civil War," he said. "She must think first for internal reconstruction."

In reviewing the American situation, Dr. Ross expressed the highest admiration for President Roosevelt and for members of the "Brain Trust." He commented on the fact that American is following the example of Europe and Russia in particular in concentrating on her own territory.

"I think that Roosevelt will find the particularism suited to the American people," said Dr. Ross. "He will not follow Italy's fascism or Germany's nazism nor Russia's communism. He will choose the way which is adapted to the Americans themselves."

He said that he believed the United States is heading for state capitalism, under which the government will control industry and agriculture. The change from the present system to the new will be bloodless, he believes, if the people continue to give their support and confidence to President Roosevelt.

Dr. Ross, who has written books about practically every country in the world and who is familiar with the internal situations of all of the larger nations, expressed the opinion that war is not imminent between any of the powers. In regard to Russia and

Problems of Defense Outlined By Gen. Moseley Before Civilians

The fundamental problem in national defense today is the correlation of fighting forces to industry, Major General George Van Horn Moseley, army commander, told Civitan Club members at a luncheon Tuesday. He asserted that the greatest step in this direction has been the organization of an industrial college for officers of the army and the navy where the requirements of these two bodies are linked up with the nation's supplies and raw materials.

General Moseley said the United States has wonderful military organization for war, since responsibility is given directly to the president. Lack of supplies or failure to coordinate industry with the fighting unit will result in defeat, he said.

"I come to you as a director of a great corporation—the army," the army commander said. "You are the stockholders in it, and therefore you have a right to know what it is doing. It is your army."

He told of a joint board in Washington whose duties are to handle the national-wide hunt for a missing witness was disclosed today by congressional investigators looking into war department activities and expenditures.

The witness is Frank E. Speicher, for whom justice department operatives have been searching for weeks. He is wanted to tell the house military affairs committee about efforts he is said to have made to get the war department to change contract specifications.

Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war, already has told the committee in executive session what he knows about Speicher.

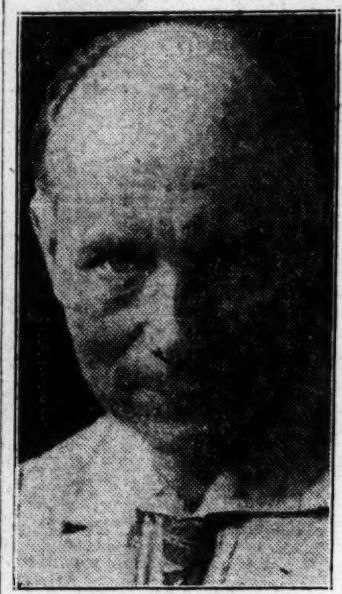

Several months ago, Woodring said, specifications previously had called for a combination splash-force fed oiling system, Woodring said that on the advice of army officers he changed it to all-force speed.

Later, the committee has been told, Speicher tried to have the specifications restored to their original form. Before any change was made, however, the grand jury investigation of the war department started, and the specifications and bids all were thrown out.

The committee wants to find out who Speicher's friends were and if any of them were employed in the war department. At the time of the splash-force feed specifications, he was representing a puncture-proof tire company. The committee has been told that Speicher offered to aid the Chevrolet Motor Company, whose cars would have been barred had force-feed been insisted upon.

CHICAGO MOTORMEN GIVEN PAY INCREASE

CHICAGO, July 3.—(AP)—A new wage agreement increasing their pay cents an hour was ratified tonight by motormen and conductors of the Chicago Surface Lines. Guy A. R. Richardson, president of the surface lines, said the men had voluntarily taken a 7-cent-an-hour decrease in wages and that improved conditions warranted the partial restoration. The cost of the wage increase to the company is estimated at more than $1,000,000 a year.

DR. COLIN ROSS.

Japan he denied emphatically that either country wanted to fight.

"Japan must expand because of over-population," he said. "If the United States and the other countries leave her alone she will not make trouble."

Among the books which Dr. Ross has written are "The World on the Balance," "The Will of the World," and "Between the United States and the Pole." The latter tells of his travels last year with his daughter in Canada and Labrador.

Dr. Ross is on his way now to see his daughter who is studying geology at the University of Chicago.

FAIR WEATHER SEEN FOR MOST OF NATION

Scattered Thunderstorms Predicted Over South for Holiday Crowds.

Independence Day celebrations will be favored by fair weather over most of the nation but in a few sections umbrellas may be packed with the picnic lunches.

Forecasters studied meteorological maps Tuesday and came up with pronouncements that generally cheered the millions who had planned to spend the holiday in the great outdoors—at beaches, resorts, golf courses and ball games—or who had arranged to participate in patriotic programs that embraced both verbal and pyrotechnical fireworks.

They predicted the east would enjoy pleasant conditions after scattered thunderstorms that would cool that area during the night. Moderate temperatures were also expected to prevail over the northern part of the great plains states and, while some showers were anticipated in certain portions of the middle-west, no precipitation of consequence was in sight.

Showers in South. Scattered thunderstorms were predicted for the entire south where normal temperatures in the 90's prevailed throughout Dixie.

Continuation of the heat siege was promised Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, and other states which make up the southern tier of the nation's commonwealths. Oregon, Washington and coastal California were to have moderate weather with higher readings in the interior of the latter state.

But residents of Iowa, Ohio and Washington, D. C., drew the umbrella warnings. Thunderstorms may visit Ohio over the Fourth in the wake of rain which fell in the northern part of the state Tuesday and were predicted for the national capital Wednesday. Some showers were in prospect in Iowa and Washington, D. C., possible in the southern Rocky mountain region.

Heat Grips Midwest. Meanwhile, thermometers stubbornly hovered in the upper reaches in many districts. Oklahoma City reported 100 degree weather as thousands of election workers prepared to spend the holiday counting primary election votes. The mercury remained in the 90's for the fifteenth consecutive day at St. Louis. The number of deaths attributed to the heat there in that period mounted to 27. Another prostration victim succumbed at Steubenville, Ohio, and the continuation of 90 degree heat for the fifth day in Pennsylvania added another life to the toll.

New York city suffered under 91 degree warmth and a humidity that attained the 64 level. Indiana experienced similar conditions and the 90 mark was expected to be equalled in Washington.

Footville, Ohio, recorded an early fireworks casualty. Robert Ziska, a blacksmith, incurred a shattered right hand and an injured eye when a small cannon exploded.

FASCISM, COMMUNISM ATTACKED BY BUTLER

LONDON, July 3.—(AP)—Urging English-speaking peoples all over the world to unite in a fight against communism in government, Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, New York, today addressed a pilgrims' banquet here.

Butler bitterly attacked both fascism and communism. "If liberty is crushed by compulsion in the generation which lies ahead of us," he said, "it can only be because the English-speaking peoples have failed in their great task."

He said he ventured to doubt whether the fate of an ancient Athens or an ancient Rome was in store for any nation. But he said that the rising tide of fascism should be halted quickly by co-operative effort.

Legal Way Opened for Start On 2 Housing Projects Here

Federal Court Completes Vesting of Title in U. S. 2,000 To Get Work by Fall.

Every legal obstacle in the way of a start on the $5,000,000 Techwood and University federal housing project has been surmounted. Jobs for 2,000 Atlanta workmen will be available between now and fall, it was announced Tuesday by D. A. Calhoun, projects director of the PWA emergency housing division.

Action of the federal courts here Tuesday completed vesting title in the federal government to all necessary properties.

Within 10 days the government will be ready to ask for bids on demolition of the University project site. These will be followed as soon as practicable by similar bids on Techwood. Then will follow grading, sewer, water and drainage contracts, and, lastly, award of contracts for actual construction.

Calhoun was enthusiastic Tuesday afternoon.

"One thing is sure, and that is that Techwood and University projects are going to be built by the federal government," he said. "Every legal obstacle is out of the way. Atlanta will be the first city in America to get such a group."

The local office, of which Calhoun is head, will advertise all bids, but the awards will be made from Washington, Calhoun explained.

He said he did not know definitely whether the contracts will be split up or not, but ventured to say he believed they would. He personally favors such a course.

Burge & Stevens and Edwards & Sayward, architects, respectively, on Techwood and University, have nearly completed detailed plans for the projects. They will be ready to place the plans in the hands of contractors several weeks before actual completion of the raising of the old structures occupying the tracts.

University, according to plans, will have 2,880 rooms; Techwood 2,280; and the University project site, which will have 677 units; Techwood, 603. There were 134 pieces of property to acquire in University, and 107 in Techwood.

I. K. Hay, assistant district attorney; Harry F. Helwig, attorney for the housing division of PWA, and Judge C. B. Verner, of the department of justice, handled the government's legal issues in the condemnation proceedings, which have been virtually completed for both projects.

Residence of about $289,000 for University property will begin July 13, under plans and the $500,000 for Techwood will follow.

Only about a dozen parcels of property in the two developments are under dispute as to the price the government should pay. They will be settled in separate proceedings, but can not affect the prosecution of the two developments.

Peter Marshall officiating. Burial will be in West View cemetery, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Mr. Andrews was born in Dawson and came to Atlanta when a boy. He became associated with the Southern Mortgage Company and was with the firm for 35 years. He was a member of Gate City Lodge No. 2, F. & A. M., the Scottish Rite Consistory of Atlanta, and Xaarab Temple of the Shrine.

He is survived by his wife, a sister, Mrs. E. S. Cox, and several nieces and nephews.

LULL EXPECTED TODAY IN STATE FARM FIGHT

A lull is expected today in the differences between Commissioners of Agriculture G. C. Adams and Governor Talmadge over the firing of State Chemist Dr. C. Reynolds Clark by Adams. The governor left Tuesday for south Georgia, where he will open his campaign today. Commissioner Adams was in his office and Dr. Clark was at his desk.

While the commissioner stood firm in his determination that Dr. Clark was "out" and that his place was occupied by the new appointee, J. C. Cain Jr., the latter was refused the keys to the office by Dr. Clark, when he appeared at the agricultural department.

While Clark declined to surrender the keys, he admitted him to the department, stating however that "I have been ordered to remain on the job by the governor and that I intend to do so, unless removed by force."

Adams scouted Clark's contention that he was fired because he declined to contribute to Adams' campaign fund.

"I never asked Clark for any money in my life, and never knew he did or did not contribute until after this matter came to a head," he asserted. "Some things are given reasons, which I will give at the proper time, and others are mere excuses."

MRS. CHARLES S. REID

PASSES AT DECATUR

Mrs. Charles S. Reid, 74, widow of the late judge of the Stone Mountain circuit superior court, died unexpectedly Tuesday morning at her home, 403 Sycamore street, Decatur. She suffered a heart attack.

Funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock this afternoon at Spring Hill chapel with the Rev. D. P. McGeehy officiating. Interment, in charge of H. M. Patterson & Son, will be in West View cemetery.

Mrs. Reid was born in Fayette county and moved to Decatur as an early child. She moved to Decatur 20 years ago, and was active in church work there, being a member of the Decatur Presbyterian church.

She is survived by three daughters, Miss Katherine Reid, president of Crichton Business College; Miss Ethel Reid and Miss Grace Reid.

One hundred cases of early feeding, with an ordinary meal on the plate, showed more rapid improvement than that experienced by 100 patients on the orthodox routine, he said.

NEW YORK, July 3.—(AP)—

A pre-holiday mood, combined with extremely hot weather, accentuated the doing nothing attitude in speculative markets today, and stocks stuck to a narrow range.

A rally in leading commodities failed to evoke a sympathetic response in the stock market, although it helped steady its somewhat erratic drift of prices was slightly downward.

Chief interest was focused on the favorable reception Wall Street gave new corporate bond issues and the appointment of Joseph P. Kennedy as chairman of the new security exchange commission.

With steel, automobile and other industries curtailing output, and after four days of July, markets found little bullish inspiration in the trade news.

Trading Dull.

Trading dragged with a heavy step throughout the day. Transfers on the stock exchange were only 401,480 shares compared with 411,730 yesterday.

The Standard Statistics Company average for 94 stocks was only three-tenths of a point lower, at 76.7.

While bulls tried to fathom the prospects for a later summer pickup in business, scattered liquidation continued in some old-line stocks. Allied Chemical, American Telephone, General Electric, Standard Oil of New Jersey and International Harvester sold off fractionally to a point.

Silver shares made a little headway against the inertia of the market. United States Smelting & Refining gained 3 points, while American Smelting, Howe Sound and Cerro de Pasco sold fractionally to a point higher.

The price of bar silver in New York was marked up 1/16 of a cent, an ounce to 46 5/8, within 1/8 of its 1934 peak.

Rails Rally.

Rail shares stiffened and recovered part of yesterday's losses.

The first batch of railroad earnings reports for last week showed considerable gains in freight movement, pointing to a new 1934 peak in carloadings for that period.

The market was a narrow affair and turnover was most ordinarily active issues was restricted to a few hundred shares.

Elsewhere, trading also slackened in advance of the July 4 holiday recess. German bonds rallied and prime domestic corporate bonds held around recent best levels, but trading was dull.

Wheat rallied a little, closing 1-8 to 3-4 of a cent a bushel higher and cotton regained 85 to 95 cents a bale of losses in the preceding session. Rubber and hides moved moderately higher.

As nervousness over the German situation subsided, the German market assumed a steadier course. The British pound rallied about a cent against the dollar to around $3.06.

Brokers' Views

STOCK OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—The market is likely to continue to consolidate its position at lower price levels. The market has recently during the past two weeks and advocates the present market phase to be employed to moderate the current trading purposes.

COURTS & CO.—With sellers quite as reluctant as buyers, the market remains in a deadlock and predictions as to how it will break out of this continuation are of little value.

BEER & CO.—We look for firmer markets during the next few days.

DOERS & CO.—Development in Germany and weather conditions over the cotton and sugar belts during the holiday should have some influence on Thursday's market.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—The indifference is a pretty good sign of the market itself is about the only favorable development we have at the moment.

COTTON OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—Thursday's market will turn largely on weather developments over the holiday.

COURTS & CO.—We continue friendly to the market.

BEER & CO.—We continue to favor buying in the market.

HUBBARD BROTHERS & CO.—Scattered accounts have probably been pretty well covered by the close of the holiday and the reopening on Thursday conditions over the cotton and sugar belts during the holiday should have some influence on Thursday's market.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—Unless weather conditions change over the holiday cotton should work higher.

GRAIN OPINIONS.

FENNER & BEANE—With new mills buying new wheat at relatively high prices and offerings smaller, we believe we are nearing a point where more investment buying activity will be noted.

LIVINGSTON & CO.—A leading Chicago house, noting the tendency of the hedge funds to the wheat market, has been heard to say that the wheat market without regard to the price of wheat the counsel of this house is wise.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Information
CLOSING HOURS
Want Ads are accepted up to 9 p. m. for publication the next day. The closing hour for the Sunday edition is 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

CLASSIFIED RATES
Daily and Sunday rates per line for consecutive insertions:
One time 20 cents
Three times 50 cents
Seven times 1.00
Minimum, 2 lines (12 words).
In estimating the space to an ad figure six average words to a line. Ads ordered for three or more days and stopped before expiration will only be charged for the number of times the ad appeared and no judgment made at the rate earned. Errors in advertisements should be reported immediately. The advertiser will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. All want ads are restricted to their proper classification and The Constitution reserves the right to refuse or reject any advertisement.

Ads ordered by telephone are accepted from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday. A telephone charge only, in return for this courtesy the advertiser is expected to remit promptly.

Household Arts.

By ALICE BROOKS.

FLORAL MOTIFS.

Pattern 5181.

Just a simple patch of color seen on long and short blanket stitches, with the same stitch outlining the rest of the flower, and you have a colorful poppy. This graceful design lends itself to a great variety of linens. Can't you see how effective these motifs would be on green or yellow taweling with the flowers in red with green leaves? Many other color schemes are fitting too, for these poppies can be done in the daintiest shades of pink on white or some pastel colored material. The leaves and stems are done in the simplest of stitches. And you needn't limit yourself to just a luncheon set with these motifs, for they also are lovely on tea-cloths, scarfs and pillows. In pattern 5181 you will find a transfer pattern of four 8-inch corner motifs, four motifs 3 1/2x2 1/2 inches, and four 3-inch corner motifs; directions for doing applique; illustrations of all stitches used; suggestions for a variety of uses; color schemes; and material requirements. To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to Household Arts Dept., The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

Quiet in the Chaco.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, July 3.—(AP)—An official announcement said today that fighting in the Chaco was confined to patrol clashes.

This and a lack of news from Bolivian sources indicate the belligerents are pausing to reorganize lines severely battered in recent major battles along several sectors.

Things That Make Women More Beautiful

Even without the pattern in the fabric this would be a star in the firmament of frocks. Wouldn't it? Those clever shoulders attend to that once for all. And isn't the treatment of the waistline interesting . . . and the skirt is all part of the same idea, and a good idea it is . . . there is no gaudy thing! Starred flat crepe is a happy selection for the fabric, but in any pretty plan or patterned cotton it would be nice. And just in passing we might say it's easy to make! You may buy the neck ruching in the shops or omit it.

Pattern 1923 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92, 94, 96, 98, 100.
